Governor Seymour on the Effect of His Declination.

MOMENTOUS QUESTIONS OF THE HOUR.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 8, 1876. The question of Governor Seymour's declination having been settled, and as he was no longer troubled with a crowd of visitors, your correspondent called a his house to learn his views of the situation. The Governor was weak and til, but willing to give his riews about political affairs. In answer to the question what influence his declination would have upon the canvass, Governor Seymour said:-

INFLUENCE OF HIS DECLINATION. "None whatever. Certainly it could not injure the democratic party. It at a Presidential election in the centennial year, when industry was depressed, business disorganized, when want and care made anxiety in so many homes, an event so insignificant could tell upon results so grave and far reaching, we should all feel that our system of election was a pitiful farce. It would be a satire upon the American people and their institutions, which would fairly expose us to the ridicule

"What do you think of the action of the Convention ?" we asked.

"No doubt it is for the moment embarrassing to our friends in the State, and it is certainly painful to me that I am unable to meet the wishes of those to whom I am under such great obligations. The affair has excited too much feeling and too many harsh comments. It is not an unusual thing for conventions in this great State to act unwisely under impulses when they find themselves embarrassed. The members are mostly strangers to each other, and they act together only a A GRAVE MISTARY when the democratic party increased the number of delegates from 128 to 384. This makes consultation impossible. It causes disorder and excitement. It compels either what is called slate making in advance or else great confusion before any policy can be marked out. Conventions ought to be occasions for consultation, and the old system should be restored. The State Committee cannot do this without the direction of the Convention. I hope this will be given." "You think, then, that the democrats will not lose much by this flasco ?"

"On the contrary, if they are prudent they will gain by it. It is wise to learn from the enemy. nomination was announced Governor Morgan and the republican papers said it was not a strong one;" prejudices engendered by the war. There is great force in this. The truth is I never was what they call a 'Seymour man.' When the Convention meets again it will have the benefit of the criticisms of the republican press. Its members have had time for thought and consultation. No one spoken of for the office of Governor will permit his name to embarrass its action. All will advise their friends to sacrifice their feelings to gain harmonious action. There will not be any unfounded suspicions of a desire in any quarter to forecast its action. At the last meeting there was neither time nor opportunity to learn from each other the fact that they all sought the same end, the success of their cause."

"You think, then, there is no significance in all this excitement about the proceedings of the Convention?"

REPUBLICAN POLITICAL STRATEGY.

"Oh, yes! There is great significance in one respect. It points to the secret of the political strategy of the republicans this carvass. The result of this election turas upon a single point—can they prevent the public mind from dwelling upon the causes which distress labor, embarrass industry and throw gloom over our country? Can they turn away the public mind from the reform necessary to bring back public virtue, prosperity and progress? Unless they can do this they are lost. I do not mean to speak harship of the republican party. It is its misfortune that it has held power during the past ten years marked by speculative excitements, by general extravagance and wite convolitions in financial affairs. The habits and morals which have wrought such evils and disand morals which have wrought such evils and dis-tress in home and business circles have acted with ex-aggerated force upon the legislation of the State and general governments. I admit that the democratic party would have fallen as their opponents have done if they had been in power under the same influences.

party would have falled as their opponents have done if they had been in power under the same influences.

"I do not doubt that the body of the republican party desire reform, but their leaders cannot discuss these subjects withous self-condemnation. We see that the republican Senate, at its last session, resisted retrenchments, for otherwise their action would condemn their conduct in the past. This fact meets them at every step, For this reason they term away from the troubles and evils of to-day with their own fellow citizens and, as far as they can, talk of affairs remote. In time or place they love to speak of war and rebellion, although more than haif of the actors in those events are in their graves, and those who live are mostly old men rapidly passing away. Now, men should not seek to hand down sectional hate as a heritage to those who are coming upon the singe of point are in their graves, and those who live are mostly old men rapidly passing away. Now, men should not seek to hand down sectional hate as a heritage to those who are coming upon the stage of point cal action and merely to grantly their passions. They do this because they are forced to do it to save themselves from discussions latal to them. This government cannot be well administered until it acts in harmony with the change in business and social habits brought about by the condition of our, affairs. These changes are not temporary; they must become for many years the settled usages of our people. Official ine must come down to them and must go through the same struggles and trials which have brought the same struggles and trials which have brought the no other way can the weight of taxation be lifted off from labor and commerce. The republicans may say they see and feel this. I hope and believe as a party they do, but they cannot correct evils in the face of their own acts and of the solemn declarations in their conventions, that they policy in the past has been wise and beneficient. They demand in their resolutions that the people shall at this election approve of what they have done in the past and commend it for future guidance. Two years ago they resisted the election of a democratic House of Representatives. That body may not always have acted wisely or well, but no man denies that its exposures of wrong, the reforms which it made and the reforms which it induced republican officials to make, were of the utmost importance to the American people.

officials to make, were of the utmost importance to the American people.

THE SUBJECT OF REPORM
cannot be discussed without its being made clear that nothing can be gained in that direction unless each of the great parties has control of some branch of government. The demand of the republicans that they be put back into unchecked power in every department will be defeated by its very aspect if the conceded evis of government are to be discussed and corrected. On the other hand, if the evis that addict American homes are the main questions of the canvass it will be clear to every thoughthic conservative citizen that the democovernment are to be discussed and corrected. On the other hand, if the evils that affliet American homes are the main questions of the canvass it will be clear to every thoughthil conservative citizen that the democrats should have the President and House of Representatives as an offset to the Senate and the vast array of many thousand officials who will continue in enjoyment of place and power. As I have said on another occasion, the republicans have lost the confidence of the people and the democrats have not gained it. As a citizen I should like to see each party with such share of power that one should have an opportunity to regain what it has lost, and that the other should be able to show the superiority of its principles and its policy. It is clear enough what motives lead the republicans to excite the public mind by side issues, by personal questions and attacks, by magnifying the incidents of a State nominating convention. This they must do to turn attention from laborers out of work, from business which sinks into bankraptey, from careworn men and from homes pinched by want. Hundreds of men have died from poverty and care at the North while one has been killed by violence at the South, atmitting every statement made by interested partisans to be true."

THE HARMERG MARSACHE.

"You speak of violence at the South; what do you think of the South Carolina massacre."

On its tace it shows that ten or more men were shot down. Unless those who perpetrated this deed can prove that it was a justinable act they must be looked upon as murderers. Until there has been a ruil, fair trial they must be regarded in that light. If they are guilty they were crue, not only as regards the negroes, but also toward the white men, women and children of South Carolina. They incided the negroes, who outnumbered the whites, to avenge themselves with the torch, the knife and all methods of destruction within their reach. This act was committed in a State where the republican party.

SUPPRINGAT THE NORTH.

Why, then, do their Se

SUPPERING AT THE NORTH.

Why, then, do their Senators and leaders, when speaking at the North, where a bundred men have died from anxiety and want where too have perished by vicience at the South, turn their eyes away from the distress which surrounds them and talk of wrongs elsewhere, which will be punished if they will do their duty? I will show you why. Did you ever, when you walk down Broadway on a moonlight night, notice a man with a telescope inviting the passers-by to look at the moon? You heard him talk eloquently of the earth-quakes that have convulsed its surface and made it so sad and desolate; you soon notice that those who yielded to his solicitations, while their minds and eyes were occupied with that distant orb, had their pockets picked here on earth. If our republican iriends can amuse the people by fighting over the battles of the rebellion, or can excite their passions by events, real or fictitious, in distant States, they may hold their followers. On the other hand, if they are forced to discuss the state of affairs now about the bomes of their hearers, where the truth is seen and felt, they are lost. I cannot think that the American people will put every branch of this government into the hands of those who cannot give a voje for reform or economy without self-condemnation. I believe the best and most thoughtful of the republican party wish to get out of this dilemma; that they will be glad to have political power so distributed that needed reforms can be brought about. They can get their party into a shape where it will be more serviceable to the public welfare. With a democratic President and House on the one hand, and a republican Senate and array of officials upon the other, there will be a discussion with regard to public affairs which would compet both organizations to elevate their standards of patriotism and public virtue with a view of gaming the confidence of the American people.

LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE.

RESPONSE OF GOVERNOR MORGAN AND OTHERS, NOMINEES OF THE REPUBLICAN STATE CON VENTION, TO THE OFFICIAL NOTIFICATION OF THEIR NOMINATION.

NEW YORK, August 25, 1876.

DEAR SIR-The Republican State Convention, which met at Saratoga Springs on the 23d inst, instructed us to inform the candidates of their nomination and to request their acceptance thereof.

We have the honor, in accordance with those instructions, to apprise you that said Convention honored itself and the republicans of the State by placing you in nomination for the office of Governor-a position twice filled by you with distinction to yourself and eminent advantage to the State and nation. The Convention felt that, in this crisis in the history of the country, the public interests required a man of liberal views of large experience and well grounded faith in republican principles, and this feeling it emphasized in the selection it made for the first place upon the ticket. Be pleased sir to indicate your acceptance of the nomination conferred, and receive with this the assurance of our heartiest congratulations. We have the honor to be, very respectfully, your LETTER OF GOVERNOR MORGAN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5, 1876. Hon. John M. FRANCIS, President :-

DEAR Sin-I have received your letter officially informing me of my nomination for Governor by the Republican State Convention which met at Saratoga Springs on the 23d of August.

It is, indeed, a great honor, and one that I highly appreciate, to receive again the nomination for Goveror of the State of New York, and I desire to make my cordial acknowledgments therefor.

Already, through the favor and partiality of the pecple, I have held the office two full terms, one term in time of peace and one when the country was at war for the preservation of the Union,

While I did not seek the nomination at this time it is prized none the less on that account, and leaves me no alternative but to formally and gratefully accept it. If the nomination should be ratified at the polls, I shall hope to so discharge the high duties of the office as to meet the approval of all just men. The resolutions of the Convention, embodying as they do the platform adopted by the last Republican National Convention, together with the excellent letters of acceptance of our candidates for President and Vice President, meet my comial approval; and as I have in lie my views in relation to the proper management of the affairs of the State, and so recently as the 14th of June last, in calling the Republican National Convention to order, expressed my opinion upon the prominent national questions now attracting public attention, it would appear to be unnecessary to extend this communication. I have the honor to be, with much respect, very truly yours, E. D. MORGAN.

NARRAGANSETT PINE, R. L., Sept. 4, 1876.

Hon. JOHN M. FRANCIS, President:—
You inform me that the republican party of the State of New York, at its Convention lately held at Saratoga Springs, nominated me to the office of Lieutenant Governor.

I desire to express my appreciation of the honor so conferred and to signify my acceptance of the nominathe Cincinnati Convention, supplemented by the resolutions of the Convention over which you presided, as I believe, the control of the national and State at fairs can safely be intrusted. I have no intention to enlarge upon the principles so enunciated, but desire simply to express my concurrence therein. Nothing is needed at this time but intelligent and honest discussion, and this we shall have. They who have feared that the people were ready, because of the stringency of the times, for a change-no matter what the change might be-were, in my judgment, mistaken. It can hardly be that the farmers of the North, having reached the autumn of this political cycle, will refree to harvest the fruits which have cost them so our steady progress toward a sound financial condition, who see our national securities at a premium in every market, and who know the readiness with which those securities, which bear a still lower rate of interest than any heretofore issued, are now being taken by the wisest toreign capitalists, are willing to place the Treasury in the control of men who were so letely in rebellion; men who have claims amounting to untold millions growing out of the war, in the justice of which they believe as firmly as they believe in the unconstitutionality and injustice of our national debt; men who hold almost none at all of our government securities' and to whom our debt is the representative and emodiment of everything which to them is hateful. It cannot be that the manufacturers whether employers or employes, who need only the restoration of usiness, hope and confidence to give activity and prosperity to their now languishing industries, will national control to a party whose title to popu confidence has been so long forfeited and shown no claim to be re-established. And, indeed, it would seem that no thoughtand cautious man, unless blinded political prejudice, can deem it wise or sate at this time to intrust the government of these States to a consolidated South and the democratic party of the North. Our political opponents are largely counting for success upon the selfishness which hard times develop-a selfishness that is blind and unreasoning. But against this I believe that we may safely set intel ligent discussion and the nobler sentiments of the citizen patriotism and fidelity to duty. Concode that in the republican management of affairs there is room for inst criticism and that reform is needed: the men who feel this are men who think, and who are not likely to trust another party in which they have no confidence to bring about reforms which they can more surely ob-

LETTER OF W. H. SEWARD. AUBUSN, N. Y., Sept. 2, 1876.

Ron. John M. Francis, President, &c :-Dran Sin-Acknowledging your esteemed favor of the 29th inst., notifying me of my nomination as one of the electors at sarce for the State of New York I beg to return my grateful thanks for the honor conferred upon me by the Convention, and to accept the same in the full faith that the admirable ticket named at Cincinnati cannot fail to meet with hearty support and entire success in the coming November election. With much respect, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM H. SEWARD. LETTER OF JUDGE DANFORTU.

ROCHESTER, August 31, 1876 GENTLEMEN-I am in receipt of your letter informing me that the Republican State Convention, lately as sembled at Saratoga, nominated me for the office of Judge of the Court of Appeals of this State. Fully appreciating the honor conferred by this act of the Convention I accept the nomination, and if elected will discharge the duties of the office to the best of my ability. Very respectfully your obedient servant, GEORGE F. DANFORTH.

REPUBLICANS IN FANEUIL HALL.

COMPLIMENTARY ALLUSIONS TO MR. ADAMS-EFFORT TO UNITE DISAFFECTED IRISH-

A grand republican rally was improvised at l'ancuil Hall this evening. It was a large and enthusiastic gathering, the principal speeches of the evening being made by George F. Hoar, John D. Long, of Hingham, and Collector A. Simmons. Allusion was made to Mr. Adams by most of the orators in highly complimentary THE DISAFPECTED INISHMEN.

There is a rumor of a movement with a view to unting the disaffected Irishmen of the democratic party against Mr. Adams; but it will probably fail, masmuch as the boston Prilo. will ardently support Mr. Adams and the entire democratic ticket.

CREEDMOOR.

THE FOUR VISITING RIPLE TEAMS OUT FOR PRACTICE-FINE WEATHER AND GOOD SCOR-

The Irish, Scottish, Australian and Canadian rifle teams, who are to shoot in the long-range international match on Tuesday next, were out yesterday at Creedmoor for a day's practice. The weather was all that could be expected, and excellent shooting was made at all the ranges. It was the first occasion upon which four representative rifle teams were present on the grounds of the National Rifle Association. The Scottish team occupied two targets on the right of the line, the Canadians were on their left, the Australians on the left of the Dominion riflemen and Australians on the left of the Dominion riflemen and the Irishmen on the left of the whole. The American team were not present, General Dakin and two or three others being the only members who were on the ground. The distances shot over were 800, 900 and 1,000 yards respectively, liftsen rounds at each range. The Septitish team (who had nine men out) made the remarkably fine record of 1,555 points out of a possible 1,800; the Irish team (who placed ten men before the butts) sustained their first rate practice of Wednesdaylast, and counted 1,551 points; the Canadians (who are not strangers at Creedmoor) made an equivalent to 1,531 points—that is, they actually counted 1,465, with Mr. Disher absent at the first distance; at the second he made 65 points, and it this number be added to the aggregate which is given above the total will be 1,531. The Australians did not shoot as a team, they having only four of their number on the field; but two of them—Sergeant Gee and Captain King—made splendid shooting. Gee made a total of 211 out of 225 points, a phenomenal score which has never been surpassed or equalled but once, and that was by Mr. Allen, of Brooklyn, who made 212 points a short time ago. In his last score yesterday Sergeant Gee made the extraordinary record of thriteen buil's-oyes and two courses, a total of soventy-three out of seventy-five points at 1,000 yards. The like of this is not known to have been done before.

Perhaps it may not be out of the way to remark that on the day when the best eight scores of the American team and reserve feeted up to the unparalleled number of 1,608 points, the eight members who now form the team made but 1,543 points.

After the shooting was finished, the Scottish team were entertained to lunch by General Dakin. The General's marque, which is fitted up in the most comitoriable manuer, afforded his visitors and friends all the Irishmen on the left of the whole. The American

General's marque, which is fitted up in the most com-lortable manuer, afforded his visitors and friends all the luxuries of the season—choice wines included. An exchange of international courtesies was had in a brace of brief and appropriate speeches; one made by Col-onel McDonald, Captain of the Scottish team, and the

A STRANGE HOMICIDE.

ONE BOY DROWNS ANOTHER-A CASE FOR THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Coroner Ellinger yesterday held an inquest in the case of William Thomas Weaver, ten years old, of No. 352 West Sixteenth street, who was pushed under the water and drowned at the foot of West Thirteenth street by a boy named John Ackerson, alias Quinn, on the afternoon of July 14. Ackerson escaped at the time and the facts were kept very quiet at first on the supposition that their publication would interfere with his arrest. He had moved from his residence, No. 429 West Sixteenth street, on the day of the homicide. Coroner Ellinger promptly issued a warrant for his arrest on the following day, but the police were unable to find him. By a strange coincidence, after the inquest was finished yesterday, officer Lally, of the Sixteenth precinct, ascertaine officer Lally, of the Sixteenth precinct, ascertained that Ackerson was living at No. 333 West Twenty-sixth street. He succeeded in arresting him there at twenty minutes to six o'clock last night. The prisoner will be taken before Coroner Ellinger this morning. The jury not having decided that the drowning of the boy was accidental, it becomes a case for the District Attorney to determine.

The following is the testimony taken at the in-

The following is the testimony taken at the inquest:—
Michael Luily, an officer of the Sixteenth precinct, being sworn, said:—I was on duty on the 16th of July, about two o'clock P. M., at Thirteenth avenue, foot of seventeenth street, when I noticed a man in a boat towing in the body of a boy, about ten years old, afterward identified as one William Thomas Weaver, of duck, secured the body and reported the case at the station house; I know nothing of the circumstances attending his death.

Henry Weaver, thirteen years old, being sworn, said:—I reside at No. 352 West Sixteenth street, and am a brother of the deceased; I was present when my brother William Itomas was drowned, on the 14th of July, at the foot of Thirteenth street, North River; I let the house with him about one o'clock, intending to go to Eleventh avenue for some wood; then William Thomas proposed to go to the river bathing; we went down to Thirteenth street; William Thomas undressed and went in the water; I remained on the dock; right after he went in a boy of about eighieen years, by name of John Ackerson, jumped its, and, bearing on his shoulders, pushed him under the water and he never came up; Ackerson then took his clothes and rab off; I ran for a policeman then and lound one at Eleventh avenue and Thirteenth street, who came down with me to the dock; Thirteenth street, who came down with me to the dock; a man in a boat was fixhing for my brother, but ind not succeed at the time in finding him; Ackerson also goes by the name of John Quinn, and lived at the time at No. 429 West Sixteenth street.

succeed at the time in hading him; Ackerson also goes by the usme of John Quinn, and lived at the time at No. 429 West Sixteenth street.

Andrew Campbell, being sworn, said:—I reside at No. 119 Ninth avenue; I am a florist by trade; on the lath of July, about twelve or one o'clock, I was at the dock loot of Thirteenth street, North River, lishing; two boys came, and one of them, the smaller one, undressed and went in bathing; he swam out a small distance, and in returning a boy, known as John Ackerson, altas John Quinn, jumped on his shoulders and into the water; he put his loot on the shoulder of little Weaver, and in doing so pushed him under the water; the tide was very strong and carried decamed right under the dock; he hever came up again.

Depaty Cornore Goldsmith testified to having made an examination of the body and gave his opinion that death was the result of drowning.

The jury brought in a verdict that William Thomas Weaver came to his death by drowning by being pushed under the water by one John Ackerson, alias John Quiun, on the 14th day of July, 1876, at the foot of Thirteenth street, North River.
